

Meet the Founders

Daksh Pasbola | Chief Executive Product Servant

Mops the floor (some times literally). Engineer in the Product Team. Product in the Engineering Team. Enjoys physical products, ironical for someone in software. Loves to learn about everything under the sun. And over it. And inside it. The buck stops here.

Anshulee Asthana | The Manager's Architect

Inspired by her favourite philosopher Goldilocks. Builds just right, not over engineered or under engineered. Delivered when right and on time. Dreams in code about code to code, attains Nirvana while writing code. Comes to lower realms for all other activities. Big bucks are programmed here.

How we engage

Engaging with people outside the current team might seem daunting for the first time. But with us, it will feel like a natural extension of your team addressing all initial apprehensions

Will they really understand our product?

We're Product-Minded Partners.

We ask the why, not just the what. Our founders work directly with you. We immerse ourselves in your roadmap, your constraints, your customers. That's how we earn a seat at your strategy table not just the task list.

Will I lose visibility or control?

You Stay in the Driver's Seat

We use your tools, your processes, your sprint rhythm. Need daily standups? Async updates? GitHub rituals? We adapt. You get full transparency without hand holding.

Will they wait around for instructions?

We Take Ownership, Not Orders

We spot what's broken, suggest what's better, and execute because we are in the same team with the same shared goal.

We have worked with many outsourced vendors but with Cennest, we are the same team - seamless and greater together than the sum of our parts